Personal Recollections of President Abraham Lincoln, General Ulysses S. Grant and General William T. Sherman Grenville Mellen Dodge

At the time he wrote this book in 1914, General Dodge was one of the few surviving officers of high rank who served in the Civil War, and he had made a great career as citizen and man of affairs in the half century that has followed the close of civil strife. His reminiscences of Lincoln, Grant, and Sherman are very informal, and were published in a modest book issued in his home town of Council Bluffs, Iowa; but they are much prized for the sidelights they throw upon the men and events. General Dodge describes this book as "my personal recollections of President Lincoln and Generals Grant and Sherman, all three of whom, up to the time they died, showed their personal friendship to me in many ways and many acts."

This book originally published in 1914 has been reformatted for the Kindle and may contain an occasional defect from the original publication or from the reformatting.
