The Challenge of Interdependence

The Bilateral Commission on the Future of United States-Mexican Relations is a group of private citizens who have been working over the last two years to reassess long-term patterns of change and continuity and to make recommendations for private leaders and public authorities in both countries. This report offers an insight into the issues and challenges facing this commission, as well as their recommendations. The report is organized around five of the most important issues that will face the two countries through the rest of this century and for each, the fundamental trends are identified and realistic opportunities for bilateral cooperation are assessed. Contents: include: The Nature of the Relationship; Economics: Debt, Trade, and Investment; The Process of Migration; The Problem of Drugs; Foreign Policy and Inter-State Relations; and Education for New Understanding.
